The Princeton Review

Training Course	SAT Preparation Course - Instructor Led Online Course
Course Language	English
Course Duration	Total Number of hours: 30 hours
Course Objectives	To prepare students for the SAT test, develop test-taking skills, and build up confidence to get an internationally competitive score
Course Content	 30 hours of well-planned live-online focused instruction on Math and Verbal with The Princeton Review trained teachers 50 Hours of online self-paced classes and drills for additional practice 42 full-length SAT diagnostic online exams with personalized feedback Verbal: In-depth review of key grammar rules, identifying and fixing errors promptly to build up strong Critical reading and reasoning skills. Special focus on writing skills to help students to deliver a strong essay Math: Problem solving strategies including back solving, Hidden-Plug in, Plug in, Ratio Box. Thorough but quick review of each mathematical concept in Arithmetic, Algebra, Geometry, Functions and Graphs. Strategies and techniques for deciphering scientific charts, graphs and empirical data Learn to recognize and eliminate wrong answer types and work strategically under strict timed conditions

Learning Outcomes	At the end of the program the trainees will be able to: Become more confident to conceptually and strategically beat the SAT test and get a guaranteed improvement of 150 points* in SAT overall score * as compared to their placement test scores.
Target Audience	High school students
Course Material /Technology used/ Details Relevant to the course.	 Online Diagnostic test prior to start of course Revision Work Shops Mock Exams TPR Materials – developed through many years of research 12-Month subscription to Online Student Center (OSC) access for Test Prep and Admissions Advising Computer-generated score reports for each diagnostic Free revision workshops in February before the March Our curriculum represents a review of 100% of the material that will be tested by the SAT
Course Fees	QR 4550